GENERAL INFORMATION

Who can apply for the Civic Education Workshop (CEW)?	Students currently in the U.S. participating in the U.S Department of State-funded Future Leaders Exchange (FLEX) Program and Kennedy-Lugar Youth Exchange and Study (YES) Program. NOTE: There are two workshop opportunities for FLEX and YES students in 2019: ♦CEW ♦Workshop for Youth Leaders in English Teaching (WYLET) Students may apply for any workshop, but may only attend one workshop.
What are the dates of the workshops?	FLEX CEWs: February 9 – 15, 2019; March 9 – 15, 2019 YES CEWs: February 23 – March 1, 2019; March 23 – 29, 2019 WYLET: April 7 – 13, 2019
Can I choose which CEW I want?	No. CEW finalists will be assigned to participate in one of the two CEWs being offered, based on their host state.
Who can I contact about CEW?	Contact the Civic Education team at American Councils for more information about this workshop: civic@americancouncils.org NOTE: When contacting staff by email, provide your full name (first, middle and last)
Who can I contact about WYLET?	Contact the WYLET team at American Councils for more information about this workshop: englishworkshop@americancouncils.org
How are students selected for the Civic Education Workshop?	The selection process for CEW is highly competitive. Each year we receive hundreds of applications, and there are a limited number of finalist slots: approximately 200 for FLEX and 200 for YES. The essay and teacher recommendation are evaluated using a detailed set of criteria. Trained evaluators assess how the student addressed the essay topic, and the originality, relevance and development of the applicant’s ideas.
Who evaluates the essays and teacher recommendations?	A group of trained volunteers evaluate each application, and they take this process very seriously. Volunteers include teachers, former diplomats and other professionals with interest and experience in international education. Volunteering to read your Civic Education Workshop application is their way of contributing to mutual understanding between countries. Evaluation takes place in American Councils’ Washington, DC, office.
Can I apply for both CEW and WYLET workshops?	Yes, you can apply for both CEW and WYLET, but you may only attend ONE of them.
When will I find out if I have been selected for a workshop?	American Councils will notify students if they have been selected or not (and for which workshop) in late December 2018 (before Christmas).
How much will the Civic Education Workshop cost me?	CEW is paid for by the U.S. Department of State. It includes travel from your home town to Washington, DC, hotel and meal expenses, and travel within Washington, DC. Your only expense will be for incidental items such as snacks, beverages, or souvenirs.
